SCHEDULE-D: DEVELOPMENT GUIDELINES AND SPECIFICATIONS

Facilities must have a minimum of the amenities as per Schedule -C: The facilities shall be developed as per following guidelines:

1. Pedestrian and Vehicular Movement

General Design Criteria for Paths and Parking

a) Traffic Safety: Design of all circulation routes and parking areas should reflect good traffic engineering design practice to enhance the safety of users during circulation and parking.
b) Aesthetics: Landscaping should be utilized to enhance the appearance of paths and parking areas.

Minimum road widths: Passenger vehicle movement

i.	One way drive: 3.5 m (min.)
ii.	Two-way drive: 7.0 m (min.)
	Two-way car - truck/bus/trailer 7.0m (max vehicle width 2.45m)

Trailer/ Truck access

a) For one-way truck/trailer (access only): 4.0 m (movement into and out of parking bays as per turning radii requirement of vehicles)
b) For two-way truck/trailer (access only): 8.0 m (movement into and out of parking bays as per turning radii requirement of vehicles)
c) Recommended minimum radius: 22 m; turning radius should be based on vehicles to be accommodated.
d) Vehicles should circulate in a clockwise direction, making right hand turns, permitting driver to see rear of unit when backing into parking space.
e) Fire Lanes: Minimum width: 6 m; Engineered surface to support recommended weight (as per Fire Code requirement)

2. Automobile Parking Facilities

Recommended Parking Stall Sizes

a) Passenger Vehicle Stall size: minimum 2.5 m x 5.0 m, 90-degree parking with two-way traffic movement. A standard stall (rather than a mix of full and compact size spaces) is preferred.
b) Stalls in service/ delivery and loading dock areas should be adequately designed to accommodate service vehicles, including large trucks if required.
c) Bus parking bay: 4.0 m x 13.5 m (min.)
d) Trailer parking bay: minimum 4.0 m (min.) x 13.5 m (or length of trailer + 1.5 m)
e) Road width between bays min.6.0m

Surface Parking Lots

a) Parking areas should be durable and ease of maintenance.
b) Lot should provide for adequate drainage and minimize puddling and erosion.
c) Lots accommodating over 50 vehicles should have at least two ingress/ egress points.

d) Where possible, select pervious paving materials and surface finishes to reduce runoff and increase infiltration.

Service Areas and Truck Trailer Parking

a) Sufficient horizontal clearances and turning radii should be provided to accommodate all service/ delivery and emergency vehicles, including long truck trailers.
b) Adequate vertical clearance for vehicles and loading dock heights for trucks should be provided to accommodate all service/ delivery and emergency vehicles. Minimum vertical clearance: 5.5 m.
c) Where possible, delivery & service areas should be screened from view public used areas. Such screening should not create a security problem.
d) Lighting should support evening use and enhance safety.

3. Topography

The existing topography of the site should be an important consideration in the design of the highway facility. Significant natural landforms and drainage features such as hilltops and drainage channels within or next to the site should be preserved where possible.

4. Landscape & Use of Plant Materials:

The landscape/ site should respect existing attributes of the site while responding to the context created by surrounding areas and facilities. One of the priorities thus must be to design green spaces in an equitable way. Durable hard landscape materials, street furniture, signage, and other features which can withstand wear, abuse, and vandalism shall be used.

The habits of living plants should be fully understood in both plant selection and landscape layout to avoid over-planting, excessive maintenance, excessive water requirements and conflict between plantings and structures. Use plant materials in a manner suitable to their growth habit and life span, minimizing future pruning and plant removal. Use plants for their aesthetic as well as environmental uses.

The following functions may be considered when selecting plants.

a) Way finding and Space Articulation: Such as defining roads and paths with tree rows; accentuating entry points and drop-off with plants having interesting form, colour, or texture.
b) Screening undesirable views or service equipment.
c) Traffic Control: Plants should be used to direct people through the site in a definite desired pattern or direction, and also as vehicle barriers.
d) Glare and Reflection Control: A judicious balance between hard and soft paved areas can minimize glare and reflection.
e) Solar Radiation Control: Plants can be used to filter or completely block out the incident sun. Single or groups of plants can be used to control direct solar radiation by shading the sun, or to intercept radiation reflected from hard surfaces. Mix evergreen and deciduous planting to achieve summer shading and winter solar access. Keeping paved areas to a minimum and increasing vegetative cover (including large areas of ground cover -not limited to lawns) reduces direct as well as reflected solar heat gain.

f) Noise Control: The effectiveness of plants to control sound levels is determined by the sound - its Type, decibel level, intensity and origin; the planting - Type, height, density, and location; and the climatic factors - wind direction and velocity, temperature and humidity. Plants cannot screen out all sound, but are effective at screening out sound levels sensitive to human ears. Scattering and absorption of sound waves by plants, grass and groundcovers, reduces sound levels. Excessive sound (noise) levels on highways need careful consideration in the selection of plant materials to maximize their sound attenuation properties.

g) Water Conservation and Plant Selection

i. Use drought tolerant plantings
ii. Use native or naturalized plants at interfaces with natural open spaces, and wherever desirable.
iii. Grouping plantings which require more water in high use/high visibility areas, and using plantings with lower water requirements in other less visible locations.
iv. Limiting use of turf to recreational use areas; use of groundcovers or permeable surfaces for other areas.

h) Landscape Furniture

Site furniture (response to site character) should be placed, where required, for the comfort, convenience, information, circulation, control, protection and enjoyment of users. Landscape/Street furniture may include the following elements:

i. Seating, Bollards, Kiosks, News Racks and Vending Machines
ii. Light Standards, Landscape Pottery and Sculpture
iii. Trash and Recycling Containers
iv. Signage

i) Guidelines for landscapes in parking areas

i. Landscape development in parking areas shall be designed to provide safety and comfort to the drivers and pedestrians, enhance the visual quality while reducing auto noise, lights and glare, and ambient temperature.
ii. All lots should receive landscape treatment (for example, screen plantings) for visual enhancement, shade, and erosion control.
iii. All lots should receive interior landscaping (planting islands or raised beds) to enhance appearance and provide significant shade. Landscaping should effectively divide lots into smaller paved expanses.

iv. Provide a "finger" landscape island for tree plantation (every 10-15 stalls) to sub-divide large parking lots.
v. Linear landscape islands must be a minimum of 3.0m wide, and ideally without curbs, and designed to receive the runoff from the parking lot.
vi. Parking lot trees shall be a minimum of 3.0m tall with stem diameter of 2.5 cm (min.) at the time of plantation.
vii. Parking lot trees shall be planted at a cleared distance from light standards so the trees will not interfere with the lighting pattern of the light fixture. Light standards shall be shown on conceptual plans and subsequent planting plans.
viii. All soil surfaces in the planting area shall be covered with shrubs and/or ground covers.
ix. Where possible select pervious paving material to increase infiltration

5. Lighting

All facilities should have proper lighting arrangement in ventilation system. The specification should be in line with good industry practice.

a) Guidelines for Lighting

Lighting should be to enhance the safety of vehicular and pedestrian flows. Lighting shall be concentrated at intersections, especially with pedestrian paths. The fixtures shall be designed for required roadway clearances of trucks and emergency equipment.

b) Lighting for Parking

- Lighting standards should be located within outdoor parking islands and to prevent unwanted glare.
- Outdoor parking lots and their pedestrian links should be provided with a "minimum maintained on the floor surface" of 16 lux of light on the parking and 27 lux walkway surface during hours of darkness.

c) Pedestrian and Entry Lighting

- To ensure the safety of pedestrians at twilight and evening hours, light fixtures shall be located along all pedestrian paths. The fixtures must be positioned in such a manner as to minimize glare or distraction for the pedestrian or motorist.
- For safety and easy identification, the entrances of buildings and parking areas should be illuminated with a "minimum maintained" of 27 lux of light on the floor surface during hours of darkness.

6. Fire

b) Clearly mark all exits
c) Provide sprinkler system in kitchen and all high-risk areas
d) Install firefighting devices as per local fire norms

Provide fire tank as per local norms
